

Dear Local and Global Credit Management Industry Employers and Workforce,

PROFESSIONAL CERTIFICATION OF NICA (CCCA) BY EXAMINATION: Registration Starts Now, Virtual Lecture Begins September 14th, 2024

In life, academic achievement is necessary, but it's only a sufficient and sustained accomplishment if it is accompanied with a credible specialist certification, and membership of a statutory recognized professional body.

CCCA programmes are designed to improve the demands of credit denominated economy, the current knowledge of credit management workforce, and increase employability qualities of a graduate, forms the basis for employee's promotion, and helps the employers to meet their most pressing challenges by taking off their shoulders the burden of employees' capacity building and consistent skills development. At NICA we realised this because, an inappropriate specialized education is one that repeats merely what already exists.

This is a NICA's professional designation earned by a person to assure qualification to perform credit administration or credit management roles. The designation verifies legitimacy and competence of its holder to perform the job, affirming that the person have been rigorously trained and prepared to deliver in all areas of credit administration management skills.

A well-educated workforce with a degree and legally approved professional certification is not only ready for the future of work, but also can demonstrate fluidity in learning. NICA's industry-relevant curriculum and a robust e-learning platform are well fixed to deliver best credit administration management in favour of both local and global credit industry employers and credit management workforce across sectors of the economy.

More than anything else, employers are increasingly expecting their credit management workforce to have the knowledge and skills in credit administration management which allows them to make meaningful contributions as soon as they're hired or promoted in their departments.

Any new graduate employee of the credit industry employer anywhere in the world can learn quickly the best practice methods in credit administration management functions within a record time and earn professional certifications to add excellent value once they are on their various job.

All NICA courses are conducted via the virtual learning platform of the Postgraduate School of Credit & Financial Management (PSCFM). These courses include the six (6) months Mandatory Credit Management Academic Improvement Programme (MCMAIP) which authenticates or validates the direct entry admission into the membership of NICA, as well as professional certification programme by examination; the combined duration is thirty-six (36 months). The NICA accredited PSCFM has a prestigious reputation and extensive alumni network in credit administration management having pioneered credit management learnings over the past three
